Council Adopts Mayor's Tax Budget; $3.28 Hike Over Figure for Year '45

Democrats Give Full Support in 7 to 6 Vote at Meeting Held on Tuesday

Rate Is $40.64

Republicans Claim That $33.06 Should Be the 1946 Figure

By a strictly party vote the Democratic majority in the Common Council Tuesday evening adopted the tentative budget drafted by Mayor W. F. Edelmuth, fixing the 1946 rate at $40.64, an increase of $3.28 over the 1945 tax rate of $37.36 per thousand.

The vote on adopting the budget was 7 to 6.

In a minority report of the finance, ways and means committee, Alderman Victor H. Roth, the Republican member, pointed out that the budget was $183,158.13 in excess of the amount permitted to be raised under the two per cent tax limitation.

Should Be $7.62 Less

"If the budget conformed to the requirements of the state constitution," said Alderman Roth in his report, "the tax rate for 1946 would be $33.02, or $7.62 less than the rate established by the mayor's tentative budget."

Alderman Roth pointed out that if the mayor's budget was adopted a taxpayer's action testing the constitutionality of the budget might result in invalidating the city's budget. "If this should occur" he said "the responsibility rests squarely on the mayor's failure to act to bring the budget of the city within the limitations prescribed by the state constitution."

Recommends Return

Alderman Roth recommended that the budget be returned to the mayor with the request that it be amended to come within the two per cent tax limitation.

A majority report favoring the adoption of the budget as drafted by the mayor was submitted by Alderman Joseph Amato and Alderman Peter Simpson, the Democratic members of the committee, and the majority report was adopted by a vote of 7 to 6.

Tentative Budget Increased

Since the public hearing on the tentative budget held on the last day of December, the budget has been increased by raising some of the amounts of the appropriations, and also by including an amount to cover the $240 a year increase in pay to all city employes, which increased the tax rate from the original $40.20 to $40.64.

Minority Report

The minority report filed by Alderman Roth reads as follows:

To the Common Council, Kingston, N. Y.:

Your minority members of the Committee on Finance, Ways and Means, has carefully examined the tentative budget for the year 1946, which was submitted by the Mayor to the Common Council on January 1, 1946, and has carefully analyzed the same to determine whether or not such budget complies with the provisions of the Constitution of the State of New York.

Your Committee on Finance, Ways and Means, after making such analysis, has determined that the tentative budget for the year 1946, as submitted by the Mayor, raises by taxation on real estate the sum of $183,158.13 in excess of the amount permitted to be raised by Article VIII, Section 10, of the Constitution of the State of

Grocers Lose Money in Fire

Amendola, Fabbie Place Blame on Thief

The police and fire departments are investigating the report that a sum of money was stolen from the grocery and delicatessen store operated by Patsy Amendola and Frank Fabbie at 351 Broadway, where a fire broke out Tuesday morning.

According to the fire department the fire started behind the counter in the store, damaging merchandise on the shelves, while the interior was damaged by heat and smoke. The plate glass windows in the front of the store were cracked by the heat.

The firemen confined the fire to the place of origin.

According to the proprietors a cigar box containing a sum of money, which had been hidden under a pile of vegetables in the cooler was missing, as was $10 in change in the cash register.

Janitors Are Held By Chicago Police In Degnan Murder

Investigators Press Hunt for the Kidnap-Killer of Child; No Charges Made

Chicago, Jan. 9 (AP)—Two apartment building janitors were held by the police for questioning today as investigators pressed their 48-hour hunt for the kidnap-killer of Suzanne Degnan, 6.

The janitors, against whom no charge or formal booking has been made, are:

Hector Verburgh, 65, who tends three apartment buildings within a block of the Degnan home in one of which the police said was located a basement laundry room in which the fiendish killer dismembered Suzanne's body after snatching her from her bed early Monday.

Desere Smet, 35, who tends three other buildings in the neighborhood and is a close friend of Verburgh.

The police planned to give Verburgh a lie detector test, while he protested steadfastly his innocence.

Counsel for Verburgh and his wife, Dorothy, also held for questioning, applied to Chief Justice Harold G. Ward of the criminal court for their release on writs of habeas corpus. The court set a hearing for later today.

Installation Men Quit Jobs Over Wages; Plant Pickets Out on Friday

New York, Jan. 9 (AP)—Telephone installation workers in widely scattered sections of the nation left their jobs this morning in the opening moves of what may develop into a countrywide telephone shutdown by Friday.

Hundreds of members of the Association of Communication Workers (Ind.), who install Western Electric Company equipment for the Bell Telephone System quit their jobs in a dispute over wages. The union claims a membership of 8,000 in 42 states.

It was the second strike against Western Electric, 17,000 employes in its manufacturing branch having quit last Thursday in a wage controversy.

To Picket Plants Friday

Picketing did not start at once, but union leaders said it would begin Friday and that once pickets were thrown around the exchanges, they had assurance that other telephone workers would not cross the lines. Such action would virtually shut down the American Telephone System.

The walkout was scheduled to start at 11 a. m. but some workers jumped the gun and quit several hours earlier.

The first workers to leave were in Ohio, Indiana and New Jersey. Workers in the nation's capital followed. New York workers were scheduled to quit this afternoon.

For the present the strike will not interfere with telephone service. However, if other workers respect the installation employes' picket lines, most long distance service and other operations handled manually will stop Friday.

May Affect Dials

Dial telephone service will not be affected until breaks occur. There will be no one to repair the breaks and union spokesmen have estimated that dial service will bog down in a week or 10 days after the picket lines are formed.

The strike became a certainty when an early morning conference between U. S. Conciliator J. R. Mandlebaum and union and company officials collapsed.

Newark, N. J., Jan. 9 (AP)—More than 600 members of the Association of Communications Equipment Workers (Independent) went on strike shortly after 10 a. m. Kingston Will Be Inspected by U. N. O.; Tour by Auto Today

Chairman Lists Kingston as One of Proposed Sites to Be Inspected; Committee Makes Trip Up Hudson by Auto Today

Dr. Stoyan Gavrilovich, chairman of the United Nations Organization Sub-Committee, which will inspect the proposed sites for the permanent home of the U.N.O., has listed Kingston as one of the eight proposed permanent sites to be inspected in New York, New Jersey and Connecticut, according to an Associated Press dispatch which was filed with member papers throughout the nation today.

Chairman George E. Yerry, Jr., has placed in the hands of the Site Committee at its headquarters in New York city mimeographed briefs, maps and sketches of the Kingston area. The completed brochure, which is now being printed, will be filed with the Sub-Committee and also with the U.N.O. General Assembly in London, England.

Tour by Auto

New York, Jan. 9 (AP)—The seven-man subcommittee seeking a headquarters site for the United Nations Organization left here by automobile for West Point today after a projected trip by plane had been canceled because of foggy weather.

The group expected to have lunch at the U. S. Military Academy at West Point, about 20 miles from Hyde Park, home town of the late President Roosevelt and one of the six spots in the New York and Boston areas suggested as possible headquarters for the organization.

At 9:45 a. m. (E.S.) the U.N.O. Site Committee left the Waldorf-Astoria Hotel here on its tour. Its schedule called for proceeding up Park avenue to 79th street, thence west to Riverside Drive and up that drive to 96th street. From there it was to travel to the George Washington Bridge which crosses the Hudson river.

At 10:15 the group was to start northward along New Jersey highway Route 9-W which rolls along the top of the Palisades.

At 10:35 they were to reach the lookout spot on the Palisades opposite Yonkers, N. Y., and after a short view of the scenery continue northward until they pass through Suffern, N. Y., Tuxedo Park and Central Valley to the Bear Mountain bridge circle. From the circle they were to drive over Route 9-W to West Point, arriving at 1 p. m.

Tonight the committee members will stay at the Vassar College alumnae house in Poughkeepsie, about five miles south of Hyde Park.

Tomorrow's itinerary calls for a trip to Hyde Park. There the chairman, Dr. Stoyan Gavrilovich, will place a wreath on the late President's grave. Afterwards the group will inspect the Hyde Park district and proceed to Rye, N. Y., for the night.

Dr. Gavrilovich, meanwhile, said last night the group was prepared to inspect eight proposed permanent sites in New York, New Jersey and Connecticut.

Kingston Listed

He listed the proposed sites as follows:

New York—Kingston, Poughkeepsie (including Hyde Park), Orange county (near Newburgh), northern Westchester county and Long Island (no particular spots designated).

Connecticut — Ridgefield and Stamford.

New Jersey—A rural area near Princeton University.

"Other areas than those mentioned in the three states may be visited by the inspection group," Dr. Gavrilovich said. "Our task will be to report on possibly 10 or 15 sites. The interim committee in London will narrow down the list to six places, and those sites will be recommended to the general assembly."

Meanwhile, Mayor William O'Dwyer announced that his committee on U.N.O. headquarters had received an offer from the U.N.O. group to establish interim headquarters in New York city.

Public Hearing On Factory Site

City Council Group to Act on Emerick Petition

A public hearing will be held by the laws and rules committee of the Common Council on Thursday evening, January 17, at the city hall on the request to place the Emerick bowling alleys at 482 Albany avenue in the industrial zone.

The bowling alleys are expected to be used as a factory for the manufacture of women's shoes employing approximately 95 persons, according to a petition filed with the council in December by Robert M. Emerick.

Mr. Emerick in his petition pointed out that at the present time the building is in the business zone, and can only be used to employ 50 or less persons. It was desired to have the alleys changed to a factory which would employ more people, necessitating the change in zoning.

If the request to change the building from the business to the industrial zone is granted the bowling alleys will be used by the Good-Fit Co., who plan to move their general plant from Brooklyn to this city.

Last night Alderman Herman Roosa of the Second ward introduced a resolution requesting the change in zoning, and the laws and rules committee to whom it was referred designated January 17 as the date for holding a public hearing on the request.

Two Welfare Members Resign, Vacancies Filled

Two members of the city's welfare board have resigned, it was revealed Tuesday evening at the Common Council meeting when Mayor W. F. Edelmuth filed with the aldermen the appointment of John E. Wolf of 97 Abeel street to succeed Ernest M. Heppner, and the appointment of Walter T. Elston of 225 Manor avenue to replace W. Kenneth Kukuk.

Both appointments are to fill the unexpired terms of Messrs. Heppner and Kukuk, who have resigned.

The mayor also reappointed Fire Chief Joseph L. Murphy as a member of the board of electrical examiners of the city.

Calls for $100,000 Indebtedness Grant

City Treasurer William B. Byrne in a communication addressed to the Common Council Tuesday evening requested that the aldermen authorize the issuance of $100,000 in certificates of indebtedness in anticipation of the 1946 tax collection. He called attention that similar action had been taken in other years. The request was granted.

Common Council Shifts Favor From Hyde Park to Kingston

The Common Council Tuesday evening rescinded two resolutions that had been adopted approving Hyde Park as a site for the permanent home of the United Nations Organization, and adopted a resolution introduced by Alderman Herman Roosa of the Second Ward, that Kingston be selected.

One of the resolutions rescided was that adopted by the Common Council at the December meeting on the recommendation of Mayor W. F. Edelmuth who in a communication urged that Hyde Park be selected as the site of the permanent home, while the other was adopted earlier in the meeting last night and recommended that if Kingston "be eliminated by the U. N. O. as one of the possible sites," that Hyde Park be selected.

Alderman Roosa in introducing his resolution that Kingston be selected said that he did so as he believed that the aldermen should favor Kingston in preference to any other locality.

The Roosa resolution was unanimously adopted, and the council also adopted resolutions introduced by Alderman Paul Zucca that the two previous resolutions be rescinded.

The resolution favoring Kingston which was offered by Alderman Roosa, seconded by Alderman Paul A. Zucca and adopted, reads as follows:

WHEREAS, due to the foresight, energy and public spirit of a group of citizens of the city of Kingston it appears that the U.N.O. headquarters might be located in the vicinity of Kingston; and

WHEREAS, a location of this headquarters would be a great thing for the people of the city of Kingston and Ulster County;

BE IT RESOLVED, that the Common Council of the city of Kingston hereby expresses its approval of the location of the U.N.O. headquarters in the vicinity of the city of Kingston; and

BE IT FURTHER RESOLVED, that the Common Council hereby requests all city agencies to cooperate to the fullest extent possible in this endeavor to the end that this site be located in the vicinity of our city.

Billion Dollar Spending Program Recommended By Dewey in His Message

Urges Bi-partisan Move on State Bonus for War Veterans; Asks Other Benefits

Reconstruction

Deals With Expansion of Building, Road Program in '46

By HENRY LEADER

Albany, N. Y., Jan. 9 (AP) — Governor Dewey recommended to the legislature in his annual message today a billion-dollar spending program, announced the current year's tax revenue surplus would approximate $165,000,000, and urged bi-partisan examination of a state bonus and other proposed benefits for World War II veterans.

Dewey asked that the postwar reconstruction fund, which with the addition of the $165,000,000, will total $485,000,000 on April 1, be used to help finance his billion-dollar peacetime reconstruction program.

This includes emergency housing, rehabilitation and expansion of highways, state buildings and canal system, and enlargement of conservation and many other "essential" activities of the state government.

Proposals

The Governor outlined a $120,000,000 personal income and business tax cut program and also proposed:

1. Stabilization of municipal finances, which will be the subject of a special message after release of the Moore Commission report.
2. Simplification, through integration, of local welfare services.
3. Continuation of commercial rent control in New York city and consideration of residential rent control legislation.
4. Additional temporary pay increases for state employes and later adoption of a permanent salary schedule to include all emergency boosts granted in the last three years.
5. Abandonment of all but the absolutely necessary war emergency laws.
6. Further revision of the Friedsam formula to provide more state aid to education.
7. An increase in the annual value of the 3,000 regents scholarships from $100 to $350.
8. An increase in the number of the $350 state scholarships to veterans from 2,400 to 3,600 per year.
9. Expansion of the public health program.
10. Continuation of the child-care program, including the migratory camp phase.
11. Enlargement of the state mediation board.
12. A statewide program to promote highway safety.
13. Uniform rules of accounting to improve insurance rate regulation.
14. Amendment of the soldier vote law to meet peacetime conditions.

In Vets' Interest

After citing previous legislation designed to help discharged servicemen, Dewey predicted there would be "many proposals for other benefits to veterans, including unsecured loans, a bonus and other direct or indirect cash benefits."

"All such proposals," he maintained, "should be examined from the standpoint of the interest of the veterans themselves.

"The first consideration must be full recognition that the veterans of this war are not and do not wish to be considered a class separate and apart. The fact is

Ulster Volunteer Firemen Will Hold Convention Here

Annual Session Slated for September Dates; Parade Will Be Feature

Kingston will be host this year to the annual convention of the Ulster County Volunteer Firemen's Association, representing every fire department in Ulster county. The tentative dates fixed for the two-day convention are Friday and Saturday of Labor Day week in September.

Present plans call for the business session to be held on Friday evening, while the convention will close with the big, colorful firemen's parade on Saturday afternoon.

The convention committee estimates that $4,000 will be needed to cover the convention expenses, and Tuesday evening a committee comprising President L. E. Dunne of the county association, former Alderman William B. Martin, and Nelson W. Snyder, convention secretary, appeared before the Common Council with the request that the alderman include the sum of $1,000 in the budget to help defray the convention expenses.

William B. Martin was extended the privilege of the floor last night, and spoke briefly. He said that it was planned to hold the convention later in the summer in Kingston, and that it was estimated that $4,000 would be needed to cover expenses. The convention committee planned to raise at least $3,000 of the amount needed, and desired the city to underwrite the balance of $1,000 by including it in the budget.

Mr. Martin said that it was possible that the committee might be able to raise the entire amount needed. He said that the committee had been informed that the amount needed had been included in the budget but when it was found that it had not been included that this last minute appeal to include it was being made by the convention committee.

President John J. Schwenk referred the request to the finance, ways and means committee and declared a recess in order to afford the committee an opportunity to report.

When the council reconvened it was announced that Mayor W. F. Edelmuth had agreed to the inclusion of the $1,000 asked by the county firemen in the budget.

Inclusion of the $1,000 in the budget will not affect the tax rate of $40.64, as the sum will be transferred from one of the other appropriations to the convention appropriation, increasing it from $1,250 to $2,250.

Protesting G.Is Warned Actions Help Saboteurs

Japs Look With Interest for Break in Morale, Occupation Troops Are Informed

Yokohama, Jan. 9 (AP)—American occupation forces were warned today "subversive forces will take their cue for sabotage plans from our future actions" after a Provost Marshal reported he had broken up a "hothead demonstration" of soldiers protesting a demobilization slowdown.

Lt. Gen. Charles P. Hall, acting commander of the Eighth Army, sent this message to his troops through the Army newspaper Stars and Stripes:

"The Japanese people watch with interest the first indication of a general breakdown of morale and discipline beginning to show up in occupation troops.

Basis for Plans

"Subversive forces quick to sense dissension in the ranks, will take their cue for sabotage plans from our future actions."

Col. Charles A. Mahoney, Provost Marshal of the U. S. Army Service Command who said he had scattered protesting soldiers on the arrival of Secretary of War Patterson, was quoted by a mimeographed paper as saying:

"If you want lace pantics, I'll get them for you."

General Hall's message added:

"Protest mass meetings at the headquarters of tower echelons accomplish nothing because all policy matters on demobilization come direct from the War Department."

It came as soldiers in this area called for a mass demonstration tomorrow before Eight Army headquarters.

Hall Gives Figures

General Hall said the redeployment of 191,183 men from Japan as of December 31 far overshadowed the 53,973 replacements received in the same period "and if this unequal percentage continues, our forces in the occupied countries will be left in a precarious position."

Mahoney disclosed he told the demonstrators who met Secretary Patterson with cries of "We want to go home" that "you are insulting a man who was a soldier before you were born."

"I told them to stop or I would take steps to break it up immediately," Mahoney said. "I asked them if they were soldiers or Boy Scouts."

A mimeographed paper, "Discharge," circulated among soldiers, quoted Mahoney additionally:

"If you want to go home I'll take you home. I'll see that you get to my Yokohama prison.

Dewey Favors Spending Million

that, together with their families, they themselves are the people of the state. x x x They and their families, therefore, will be paying for whatever benefits are voted."

The discussed proposals, Dewey said, must be voted by two succeeding legislatures and then submitted to the people. The referenda "should be bi-partisan in nature" and legislative conclusions "should be reached upon the advise of the veterans themselves," he added.

Vital Matter

The governor declared "this is a matter too vital x x x to allow it to be made a political football. It affects fundamentally the financial structure of the state xxx. Any other course will degrade the most precious sentiments of loyalty and obligation to veterans, to competitive bidding for votes."

He recommended that "all proposals for veteran benefits that may come before you be referred to a by-partisan joint committee of both Houses which should confer with the State Veterans Commission created by you at the last session so that all proposals may be studied in an atmosphere free of partisan politics."

Dewey said the "two fundamental needs of every veteran" were housing and a job. He pointed to his efforts to alleviate the housing shortage, and declared New York was leading the way in the nation in job opportunities through tax reductions and business promotion.

Split Responsibility

"The national government, however, has not been helpful," he asserted. "The President has vetoed a bill which would transfer the employment service to the state where it belongs. As a result, there is a split responsibility for the jobs. The federal government retains the State Employment Service under its exclusive control while we have the veterans' counselling service which would bring the veteran together with the job. Despite these difficulties and the problems of reconversion, the veteran's division has made a remarkable success in both educational and job placement."

Dewey urged a constitutional amendment to the Soldier Vote Law to permit voting by servicemen still overseas.

No Additional Burdens

Speaking of the postwar fund, Dewey said "it has not been easy to maintain these wartime savings inviolate from spending raids. x x x careful planning of the state's fiscal affairs has put us in the enviable position where we can meet the great postwar needs without putting additional burdens upon our people x x x."

The Governor announced that by March 31 the states' net indebtedness will have been reduced to $388,000,000. It was $496,000,000 when he took office in 1943.

Dewey's reconstruction program calls for building a $202,000,000 toll-free thruway extending from New York west to the New York-Pennsylvania state line near Buffalo; general improvement of the rest of the state road system, including farm-to-market roads; elimination of hazardous grade crossings; rehabilitation of state institutional buildings; conservation projects; equipment purchases; flood control and other projects.

The program must be accomplished "within the next few years," the Governor said.

Allocation of Money

He would take $400,000,000 from the postwar fund for these purposes, allocating as follows:

Highways, parkways, grade crossings and canals, $225,000,000; mental hygiene, social welfare, correction and other state structures, $95,000,000; conservation projects, $20,000,000; planning, rehabilitation, equipment purchases, flood control and other undertakings, $30,000,000.

Of the remaining $600,000,000 needed to complete the program, about $200,000,000 of federal aid is expected over a period of six years, Dewey said. "The balance of $400,000,000 will have to be met out of general fund revenues in the next few years at a rate to be determined by the speed at which the program progresses," he said.

Dewey declared that apart from general reconversion "there is no matter more critical than that of emergency housing. He reviewed his emergency shelter program, said the state had led all other states and the national government in taking action, and asserted "legislation will be necessary to implement this emergency program and to expand the permanent program. He will send a special message on the subject.

Still Inequities

There are "serious inequities still," he went on, "between some grades, an dsome of our highly educated and trained employes are not, even now, adequately compensated. It is necessary, therefore, that our basic salary scales originally fixed in 1937 be completely reviewed for permanent changes. He said the Legislature should plan to make those changes at its 1947 session.

Recommendations for expansion of the public health program will be made after a special commission reports February 15.

Citing a sharp increase in highway accidents since V-J Day, Dewey announced he was calling a statewide safety conference next spring under state auspices, "to bring together representatives of all groups interested in a broad safety program."

The goal, he said, "will be to organize a fully-integrated statewide program to propose to you fixed speed limits and a traffic regulation program, to set definite quotas for the reduction of accident fatalities and injuries, to increase cooperation among interested agencies," and to promote development of safety for pedestrians and drivers and for the home, farm and factory.

Janitors Are Held By Chicago Police In Degnan Murder

Second Man Seized

Early this morning, police went to the vicinity of the crime and seized the second janitor, whom they described as about 35 years old, also a native of Belgium and a close friend of the janitor picked up in the Winthrop avenue apartment basement yesterday.

It was in the basement, police disclosed, that they found blood stains and parts of the girl's internal organs in the laundry tub drain, as well as several small bones in a furnace. All parts of the child's body except the arms were found Monday night in sewers near her home. The gruesome discoveries came more than 12 hours after Suzanne had been kidnaped from her bedroom by a man who left a note demanding a $20,000 ransom.

Also in the murder room, police said they found a hacksaw which they said probably was the instrument used by the killer in dissecting the body of the blond, blue-eyed Suzanne, daughter of James E. Degnan, 36, an Office of Price Administration official. Dr. Jerry Kearns, coroner's physician, however, disagreed and said a sharper instrument had been used.

Check on Writing

Hanrahan asserted that samples of writing by the eldest janitor disclosed similarities in some letters printed and written on the ransom note which was left in the child's bedroom after she was stolen during the early morning hours Monday.

The 65-year-old janitor, police said, has no record as a criminal and had been employed in tending apartment buildings in the Edgewater District for more than 15 years. He was described by many tenants in buildings he tended as mild mannered. He is the father of two married daughters, and stepfather of four son and daughters and grandfather of seven children, some hear Suzanne's age.

Held in Custody

Police did not immediately announce the results of the questioning of the second janitor, but he also was held in custody. Officials said they were not ready to release them pending further investigation.

Meanwhile, nine other men seized by police in their city-wide hunt for the brutal slayer, were given so-called "lie detector" tests. All apparently cleared themselves, although one, unidentified, received a prolonged examination of two hours.

Police Chase Thieves Through Gotham Streets

New York, Jan. 9 (AP)—Three policemen and two unidentified men staged a running gunfight early today during a 10-mile auto chase that proceeded at breakneck speed through streets from Harlem to the Bronx.

The episode began when Detectives Frank Muscatell and Larnold Gardhard approached two men in a sports convertible parked near a bar and grill on Eighth avenue near 124th street.

Suddenly the car, apparently stolen by the two men, began to move and nearly ran down the detectives. They fired at it and then pursued in their own car, stopping only long enough to pick up Patrolman Abraham Yudenfriend.

They finally were outdistanced but later recovered the convertible which had been abandoned and had three bullet holes in it. Police questioned the owner of the car, who was not identified, and sent out an alarm to hospitals and morgues because they believed one of the fleeing men had been shot.

London, Jan. 9 (AP)—Secretary of State Byrnes said today that the United States, Russia, Britain and Canada were agreed on safeguards for atomic energy secrets under whatever control plan was devised by the United Nations Organization. The failure blasted hopes of a truce being effected before a political unity conference opens tomorrow morning.

Legion Post Wants U.N.O. Established In Esopus Town

The American Legion Post of the town of Esopus Tuesday night adopted a resolution pledging the complete support of that organization to the movement designed to make the town of Esopus the site of the permanent headquarters of the U.N.O.

Members of the committee appointed to cooperate with the Kingston Chamber of Commerce and any other organizations which may be working toward that goal are: Commander P. J. Belchert, George M. Hard, John T. Groves, Thomas J. Morrissey, Robert Fairbrother, Roscoe V. Elsworth, Earl Terwilliger, D. H. Dunbar, H. M. Cameron, Louis Goodrich, Edwin T. Doyle and Thomas J. Connolly.

The committee was appointed at a special meeting of the post Tuesday night at St. Leo's Hall in Port Ewen. Commander P. J. Belchert presided and the religious invocation was read by the Rev. Michael Curley, of Port Ewen. County vice commander, Thomas Bohan, was a guest at the meeting.

Family Sees Vet

The commander reported that the wife and three children of a wounded veteran had been taken to New York to spend Christmas at Halloran General Hospital as guests of the Post. Accommodations were made at a New York hotel and a Christmas package containing a Legion membership card and button and a Legion cap was sent to cheer the disabled veteran.

Father Michael Curley made a brief speech in which he refused to accept a check for $50 which the Legion had tendered him and the parish to help defray expenses incurred from the use of the hall by the Legion. Father Curley said the Legionnaires had earned anything that he and the parish could do for them.

Post Congratulated

County Vice-Commander Bohan spoke briefly, congratulating Commander Belchert and other members of the Esopus Post on the progress of their organization, and offered reservations at the Legion legislative dinner scheduled in Albany in the near future.

KINGSTON, NEW YORK, JANUARY 9, 1946

DEPARTMENT OF COMMERCE

Kingston welcomes the regional office of the New York State Department of Commerce to serve the seven counties of Ulster, Sullivan, Greene, Columbia, Dutchess, Putnam and Greene.

The decision to choose Kingston is a wise one due among other things to its central location.

One of the earliest projects of the Kingston Chamber of Commerce was to secure the state regional office in Kingston. Its foresight and action have resulted in an accomplishment, the value of which cannot now be told.

Governor Dewey in his plan to stimulate the expansion of business in the state has broadened the work of the State Commerce Department. One of the latest departments is the creation of a Bureau of Distribution, which has as its immediate program the dissemination of information and assistance to retail, wholesale and service enterprises with special emphasis on marketing information, accounting and record-keeping, store location, personal selection and training. Attention will be directed to an information and consulting service for returning veterans who wish to enter business.

The program will be developed and expanded in close cooperation with state trade associations and the merchant groups in local chambers of commerce. It will be designed to help small business and small businessmen.

The Department also publicizes the material and economic advantages of the state which make it attractive for business and residence; collects, compiles and distributes information and literature on state facilities and attractions; conducts a program of information and publicity designed to attract tourists and encourages efforts of public and private organizations and groups of citizens to promote the tourist attractions of the state.

In broad terms the Department investigates, studies and undertakes ways and means of promoting the development and protection of the industry and commerce of the state.

C. OF C. NOMINATIONS

The Kingston Chamber of Commerce is holding its election to fill vacancies on the Board of Directors. The terms of seven directors will expire.

Members of the Chamber of Commerce are privileged to nominate seven directors on the ballot furnished. The choice is unlimited outside the present directors, which are indicated on the membership listed mailed to members.

Fourteen persons receiving the most number of nominations will be designated as nominees for the coming annual election. Ballots must be postmarked or received at the Chamber of Commerce office before 12 noon, Friday, January 11.

This is a democratic process for the selection of directors and it is anticipated that all members of the Chamber of Commerce will participate in the nominations and the subsequent election.

TOO MANY EGGS

Each of us must eat 350 eggs this year, or about 50 more than last year according to the Department of Agriculture, or the country is going to be swamped with hen fruit. It all comes from efficiency methods applied to the laying process. The hens have done too good a job and they are going to pay for this. For as many as 70,000,000 of them are to be slaughtered in the coming year to control the egg market and keep the American public from a too eggy diet.

Well, fried chicken and angel food cake, pretty rare during war time, are good eating. And here's a chance to let the family gorge on them once more.

It seems as if man himself is moving steadily toward a gadget era when everything will be automatic.

These recent railroad jams will be boosting aviation and sending travelers up where there is more room to get around.

'These Days'

By George E. Sokolsky

THE PROBLEM OF WOOL

At a time when millions of men and women the world over are short of clothes, when even in the United States men's suits and overcoats are so scarce that veterans have to continue to wear their uniforms, there is a surplus of four billion pounds of wool held by the British. I spell it out so that by no typographical error might the sum be misstated. While the British are borrowing $4,000,000,000 from us, they hold wool which they could sell to us for exactly that amount of money.

Senator O'Mahoney, as far back as November 21, called attention to this condition. He said:

"I am told that the British control plan goes so far as to ration the use of woolens for civilian consumption in Great Britain in order to conserve the product for use in the export market. That is to say, for distribution in the United States in competition with the woolens and worsteds produced by our own manufacturers."

He quoted "The Report and Recommendations of Conference of Representatives of the United Kingdom, Australia, New Zealand, and the Union of South Africa" to the effect that beginning June 30, 1945, it would take 13 years for the British to get rid of that surplus—and most of the world is without clothing today. If the United States to give away $4,000,000,000, why not buy this wool from the British and give it to those men, women, and children of the world who are desperately in need of clothing? Why should the British seek the gift-loan if they can make an honest sale of a needed commodity?

And here are the figures:

"Stocks 30th June 1945	3,245,000,000 lb.
Exportable Surplus	1,310,000,000 lb.
	4,555,000,000 lb.
Consumption	1,390,000,000 lb.
Stocks 30th June 1946	3,165,000,000 lb.
Exportable Surplus	1,330,000,000 lb.
	4,495,000,000 lb.
Consumption	1,620,000,000 lb."

Let me also quote this colloquy:

"Senator Wheeler: The point I want to make is that conditions are such in Europe that there is a demand for clothing in Europe, and I imagine in parts of Asia, such as there has never been in the history of the world almost."

"Mr. Clayton: That is true, Senator, and there is also a tremendous buying power in this country and throughout the world. The world has been starved for clothing for four or five years and the backing of purchasing demand requirement is simply enormous."

Mr. Clayton attempted to defend Great Britain's hoarding of woolens and other materials on the ground that the British have to build up their export trade. Why not export the wool? What lies before us is the simple fact that they seek to borrow $4,000,000,000 when they can actually get the same number of dollars by selling us their wool or most of it. Certainly, if the British need American dollars to recondition their industries, they have the means for obtaining those dollars by a normal trade transaction, namely, by selling their wool. And they have by now other products to sell—surely, jute, tin and rubber.

From the facts in the situation, it is clear that the United States has to decide whether Great Britain is to get $4,000,000,000 for nothing or whether it is to put up something for that amount of dollars. It would seem as though a proud and dignified country would refuse to take something for nothing as long as it has something to sell. Mr. Clayton, in defending the British, said:

". . . But I want to make it plain that if the British are to pay their way and continue to import our goods and goods of other countries, and to continue to maintain a fairly decent standard of living for their people, they have got to re-establish their export trade, which has now fallen to 30 per cent of prewar, so they have lost over two-thirds of their export trade. . . ."

All right. That sounds reasonable and agreeable. Why do they not start by exporting to the United States 4,000,000,000 pounds of wool for $4,000,000,000, instead of trying to borrow the money on a phoney loan? Will Clayton seems to have condemned his own policy of a gift-loan.

CONVALESCENT IN WAR AND PEACE

Although I was president of a medical board during World War I and passed on the fitness of thousands of soldiers going to and coming back from the battlefront, I have no hesitation in stating that the medical examination for entrance into the armed forces in World War II and their discharge therefrom is greatly in advance of what we were able to do in World War I. While it must be admitted that the advance in surgical treatment and the speed in transportation of surgical cases is great and the use of the sulfa drugs and penicillin has made medical cases much more safe, perhaps the greatest advance of World War II over World War I is in the treatment of mental disturbance caused by war. This is particularly true in the mental and emotional disturbances due, not only to wounds and illnesses but to long continued anxieties of military life.

There is no question but that our medical officers in World War II were much better equipped to "combat resentments, anxieties and fears" during convalescence than were those in World War I. They have done a wonderful job in shortening the duration of the illness and increasing the proportion of men fit to return to the battlefront.

In the Journal of the American Medical Association Major Keeve Brodman, and Drs. Bela Mittelmann and Harold G. Wolff, New York, report the personality disturbances that interfere with the convalescence of men of the armed forces — dislocation as regards family, friends, work and life plans; anxiety, provoking situations, and changes from ideals in peace to ideals associated with war and bloodshed. Every member of the armed forces is affected by these factors and if he is sick or wounded these factors aggravate body and mind thus seriously interfering with recovery and return to duty. These research workers state that about 80 per cent are able to overcome these nervous or emotional factors without too much difficulty, about 15 per cent can be successfully treated and adjust themselves to military life, and the other 5 per cent are, and likely always have been, unsuited for military life. The 5 per cent should be discharged and the 15 per cent recover because the medical officers now recognize these psychoneurotics, as they are called, and treat this condition. A psychoneurotic is an individual who has an exaggeration of the feelings and bodily reactions found in some degree in every one.

"At Century's Turn"

By H. L. VAN DEUSEN

With the New York State Department of Commerce opening a regional office at 442 Broadway, this city, it is interesting to recall that on December 5, 1923, the Kingston Chamber of Commerce signed a five years lease of the ground floor of that building, and moved in on January 1, 1924, remaining in the building until 1929.

Prior to locating at 442 Broadway, the Chamber of Commerce had its headquarters at 448 Broadway, now occupied by D. J. Maroon as a soda and confectionery store.

I recall that during the 1920's I covered the meetings of the Chamber of Commerce for The Freeman, and attended a number of them in the office when it was located at 448 Broadway and later at 442 Broadway.

Prior to opening permanent headquarters the Chamber of Commerce for some years held its directors' meetings in the room of the Board of Public Works on the second floor of the city hall.

Elva H. Bogart was elected president at the annual meeting of the Ulster County Auto Club held on December 10, 1923. He succeeded William J. Turck, who had been serving as president during 1923.

Other officers elected were Harry Ensign, vice president; Dr. H. F. Meinhardt, secretary, and Ward B. Everett, treasurer.

Alonzo Winne and Leroy Longendyke were elected directors.

Turning from civic affairs to local entertainment, the farce, "His Model Wife," was presented by a group of young people in the lecture room of the Clinton Avenue Methodist Church on December 12, 1923.

In the cast were Mrs. Bernard McBride, Mrs. Nelson Smith, Jr., LeVan Haver, Willis Markle, Florence Bentley, Mrs. Floyd Rich, Mrs. Jack Newkirk, Chris Longyear, Alice Toole and Mrs. Robert Hudler.

Instrumental numbers were given during the evening by Charles and Clarence Bechler.

David I. Newland, who at one time conducted a grocery store in the former Newland building on East Strand, opposite the old Rhinebeck ferry shed, died on November 30, 1923, in his home on Pearl street.

The Newland store for a number of years was one of the largest grocery stores in the downtown section of the city.

Fraternally Mr. Newland was a member of Rondout Lodge of Masons, Franklin Lodge, Knights of Pythias, and Kosciusko Lodge of Odd Fellows.

George Duffner, for years a prominent carpenter and building contractor, died on December 8, 1923, in his home in Wilbur. For more than half a century he had been engaged in erecting buildings, both residential and business, in Kingston.

Twenty and Ten Years Ago

January 9, 1926—Announced that annual auto show would be held here in February.

More than six inches of snow fell in city.

William R. Byrne elected president of Charity board.

Men's Club of Fair Street Reformed Church elected Ernest LeFevre president.

Death of Mrs. Nathan K. Griffin of Elmendorf street.

Charles A. Pardee died at Hall River, Mass.

Death of John Hallenbeck of Saugerties.

January 9, 1936 Stephen D. Hildebrant, Dr. Charles D. Carter and William H. Grogan appointed members of local emergency relief board succeeding Henry Frost, A. S. Staples and Nicholas Hogeboom who had resigned.

Supervisors elected Fred H. Stang, Clerk; Vanderlyn T. Pine, chairman; Reuben V. Haworth, county attorney and Dr. Kenneth LeFever, jail physician.

"IF YOU AND I WERE JAPS OF THE BETTER SORT"

(The second of two articles)

Along about 1936 we would be convinced that the western powers were going to fight again, and this time completely destroy one another. We would watch while our diplomats tried to find out where our country's advantage would lie, while our brash militarists proceeded to grab off as much of China and South Asia as they could get their fingers on. We would proudly deplore brutalities against our Asiatic neighbors, but our own government censorship would keep us from knowing the worst. And our propaganda services would convince us it was Japanese who were being multilated.

And then would come the shock of finding that we had been thrown into war with the one nation we never had any serious thought of fighting under any circumstances—namely, the United States of America. And after that there would be nothing to do but fight. At times when we would hear of the cleverness of our officers in surprise-attacking and destroying the main United States navy and the amazing speed with which we occupied the island world and the astounding weakness of the forces we were fighting, we would even persuade ourselves that there was a chance to win—or at least draw, and of course we had to fight so long as the Emperor said so.

And then came instruments of destruction such as we had never dreamed of, destroying our capital city and slaughtering more people in it than the great earthquake and fire of 1923. Perhaps we began to understand what our destroyers had meant to our relatively unarmed neighbors several years earlier. Through the thick screen of censorship, we finally learned that our vaunting army and navy and air force could not stop the destroyer from reaching us, until finally he began to wipe out whole cities with single bombs, taking first Hiroshima, known for its beauty, and then Nagaski, known for its history and its factories.

And then Russia pounced upon our back.

As Japanese, we were ready to die as the invader should come ashore, taking as many as possible of his men to death with us, when our Tenno said we must give ourselves into our enemy's hands.

You or I as Japanese of the better sort would say: "Perhaps we are guilty of a crime—you have all the say about that now. You are our judges, you are our gods. We know we are guilty of worse than a crime, (as this world goes) namely, of a mistake." We Japanese look out on the world and still see that might makes right and that the struggle of powerful rivals is far from over. But we are glad, for now that rivalry is over for us. We face, now, just misery. Still, we come of a race that is always ready to work, and to obey authority.

And that, I think, would be our mentality if we were Japanese of the better sort, surviving and facing a very empty future right now.

It's well for us to take into consideration, because the Japs are in our laps—unless we give them to Russia.

Leaves From Boyle's Notebook

Manila (AP)—Behind mass rallies staged here by soldiers to protest the slowing of the demobilization rate lies a suspicion among some troops that they will be used for new American "adventures in intervention" in the Far East.

This feeling was heightened with a disclosure last week that the 86th Infantry Division would be given renewed combat training.

Although this measure would appear necessary from purely a military standpoint — trained troops are needed to quell any disorder that may arise in troubled areas occupied by American troops—many soldiers voiced concern. They fear they may be used to intervene in postwar Pacific squabbles in which they have no personal interest—such as China's civil strife. Many feel also that should violence break out among factional elements in the Philippines, the American army shouldn't be used to put down rebellions.

Isn't Worth a Life

"Of course, they tell us officially that we will be used to safeguard American prosperity," said one soldier who has one point less than the number required to send him home to his wife and two children, "But I feel that it isn't worth one of our boy's lives to save anything we have here."

The position of army commanders, however, is clear. They must have battle ready troops to undertake any assignment America's foreign policy requires. Unfortunately in such matters, the extent of such assignments isn't clear because foreign policies are expressed through diplomats who, by the nature of their tasks, speak vaguely rather than directly.

This doesn't make much difference to professional soldiers. They fight when they are told to. But civilian armies fight well only against those they hate. America still has a civilian army.

There is no country or people against whom these troops now waiting to go home have any strong feeling of hate. Otherwise, you could blow a bugle and they would fall patriotically into battle line.

Leaders Must Be Frank

Their demonstrations against the War Department's contradictory redeployment program is the result chiefly of lack of frankness on the part of higher leaders in Washington, who raised their hopes too high too fast. The natural reaction of disappointment over the new policy of retarding the demobilization rate has resulted in a mass hysteria of homesickness.

The troop demonstrations have been remarkably orderly because the men sensibly realize that any violence or insubordination en masse would lose them support at home. Yet such situations always are potentially explosive.

BEGGARS FOR SALE

Over 2,000 professional beggars offered themselves for sale at an annual market in Wanathamulla, Ceylon. They were bought by other natives who had saved money to invest. When a native buys a beggar he goes with him every day to his pitch and returns at night to collect his takings, of which the beggar gets a percentage.

War Department Wastes Too Much Time on Army-Navy Merger Instead of Solving Occupation Problem

By DAVID LAWRENCE

By DAVID LAWRENCE

Washington, Jan. 9—Long before the war ended there were two schools of thought about how Germany should be treated. One advocated that the German people be given the severest possible punishment, on the theory that the whole nation was responsible. The other advocated that the German nation be stripped of its war potential and that the guilty war criminals be executed but that the people as a whole should be rehabilitated.

One of the principal arguments against the so-called "hard peace" was that democratic nations would not raise the armies or incur the burdens of a long-time occupation. Those who clamored for decades of occupying were never able to say who was going to enlist in the army to do the work of policing Germany.

Today the American parents and relatives of the soldiers want their boys home. The demonstrations against delay in demobilization have been conspicuous. President Truman had to issue a statement explaining the enormous nature of the task and the need for keeping troops at the outlying posts where the terms of the surrender have to be executed.

Whether or not the people of Japan will eventually become our friends is related to the manner in which General MacArthur carries out the occupation task. Certainly the indications at present are that the Japanese and American peoples will become friends rather than merely former enemies. If this develops, it will be because the United States has not arranged to occupy Japan indefinitely.

In Germany, however, the situation is different. It begins to look as if Germany will be occupied for decades to come. It is doubtful whether British or Russian troops will be withdrawn from German soil for a long time. Is America prepared for an indefinite occupation? To accomplish it a large army will be needed, and as yet the War Department has not been able to develop a plan that would bring in the necessary forces as replacements for existing requirements.

Too much time and attention has been given by the War Department to the politics of the proposed merger of the Army, Navy and Air Forces and not enough time to the simple task of raising an army by means other than the draft.

At present the Selective Service law is still in operation. Congress has not terminated this statute, nor has there been any crystallization of opinion behind any substitute. The problem of universal military training has been agitated even though no army adequate to replace the troops overseas has been provided. Under the War Department's military training bill, service overseas was not to be required anyhow.

So it all comes down to the single fact that the Allies are still in a state of war and yet the United States is under pressure to demobilize its forces at once. Congress has been putting pressure on the military establishment. But neither the President nor any member of his cabinet has pointed out that American occupation forces are to stay in Europe for several years and what forces will be used.

There are, of course, those in the government who feel that United States can leave a token force abroad. The British would be uneasy about this and so would those Americans who feel the United States should stay in Europe and enforce discipline upon the German people.

President Truman has urged that all men overseas be brought back and yet it is obvious that the voluntary enlistment plan has not brought in enough men to replace the overseas veterans.

There is a lack of leadership as well as planning in the whole affair. Furthermore, the advocates of a "hard peace" seem to have reckoned without the demands of the parents and relatives as well as the veterans themselves. The desire to get back home and forget about Europe is as intense today as it was in 1919 so far as the troops are concerned. Here is a major problem in international relations. A course that seeks to rebuild the German people and to bring them into the family of nations will bring peace to Central Europe more quickly than floundering methods and an indefinite occupation.

Council Adopts Mayor's Budget

New York, and your committee hereby declares that the tentative budget for the year 1946, as submitted by the Mayor, is, in its opinion, therefore unconstitutional and should not for that reason be adopted by the Common Council.

The computations in the following table are self-explanatory:

Determination of taxing limit—2 per cent of the average assessment for five years:

Assessed valuation over the five-year period:

1942	$ 23,103,264
1943	23,209,594
1944	23,164,282
1945	23,542,972
1946	23,898,767
	$116,918,879
5-year average	23,383,775
2 per cent limit on 5-year average	467,675

Analysis of Budget for 1946

Appropriation for city purposes:
General Government Expenses	$649,132.91
Miscellaneous Government Expenses	11,836.23
Welfare and Relief	252,214.00
Pension Fund Contribution	44,200.00
Estimated Deficit—Year 1946	15,000.00
	972,383.14
Less Estimated Revenues other than Taxes on Real Estate	347,538.16
Amount to be Raised by Taxes on Real Estate	624,844.98
Permitted by Constitution by Taxes on Real Estate	467,675.00
Amount to be Raised by Taxes on Real Estate for General City Expenses in excess of 2% limitation	157,169.98
Additional items in Debt Service "Issued for purposes other than the financing of capital improvements":
Snow removal note	16,901.15
Interest on snow removal note	84.50
Notes for City's share of cost in preparation of plans for postwar projects	8,500.00
Interest on notes for City's share of cost of plans, etc.	42.50
Estimated interest on notes to be issued in 1946	460.00
	$183,158.13

The tax rate established in the tentative budget for the year 1946 as submitted by the mayor is $40.64. If the budget conformed to the requirements of the State Constitution, the tax rate for 1946 would be $33.02 or $7.62 less than the rate established by the mayor's tentative budget.

In 1938, the voters of the State of New York adopted amendment No. 1 to the State Constitution, which included Article VIII, Section 10. Section 10 prescribed that after January 1, 1944, no city could raise by taxation on real estate for city purposes a sum greater than 2 per cent of the average assessed valuation for the preceding five years, but excluding from the limitation the cost of certain items of debt service. The object and purpose of this constitutional amendment was to limit the amount of local taxation that could legally be placed upon the owners of real estate.

On January 1, 1940, in his annual message to the Common Council, Mayor Conrad J. Heiselman called attention to the problem which would have to be met in 1944 and made certain recommendations for meeting that problem.

Alderman-at-large John J. Schwenk in public addresses and The Kingston Daily Freeman editorially have called public attention to the problem.

City Judge Matthew V. Cahill, in 1943, while a candidate for mayor, called public attention to the crisis facing the city in 1944 because of this constitutional restriction on the taxing power of the city.

The Common Council in January, 1944, and again in January, 1945, publicly declared by resolution that the budgets for the years 1944 and 1945 raised by taxation on real estate more than was permitted by the State Constitution.

Notwithstanding these warnings, Mayor Edelmuth assured the people of Kingston that the problem did not exist. Although he has been mayor now for four years, he has failed to act to meet this emergency in the fiscal affairs of the city.

The year of 1946 has arrived and still no action has been taken by the mayor to meet the problem created by the constitutional taxing limit.

If the tentative budget as submitted by the mayor is adopted by the Common Council, and approved by the mayor, a taxpayer's action testing the constitutionality of the budget might result in invalidating the city's budget. If this should occur, the responsibility rests squarely on the mayor's failure to act to bring the budget of the city within the limitations prescribed by the State Constitution.

The members of the Common Council in 1944 and in 1945 reluctantly voted for budgets which were, in their opinion, unconstitutional because our country was engaged in war and there was no disposition on their part to precipitate controversy during wartime.

However, the war is now over. The time has now arrived to put our city's financial house in order.

Kingston cannot afford to continue to conduct the affairs of its city in violation of the law of our State.

I, therefore, recommend that the tentative budget for the year 1946, as submitted by the mayor, be disapproved and rejected for the reason that it raises by taxation on real estate the sum of $183,158.13 in excess of the amount authorized and permitted by Article VIII, Section 10 of the Constitution of the State of New York and that the budget be returned to the mayor, with the request that such budget be amended to comply with the requirements of such Constitution.

Minority Member on Finance, Ways and Means

New State Office In City Pleases Commerce Group

President M. Reina of the Kingston Chamber of Commerce hailed the announcement of the location of the district office of the New York State Department of Commerce as an accomplishment which will be of untold value to the city.

It marks the successful culmination of one of the earliest projects of the chamber. At its inception a committee consisting of James Rowe, Harry Rigby, Jr., Edward M. Huben and Bert Bishop were appointed to obtain this office for Kingston. It was thought that its assistance in locating prospective new industries would be invaluable. Also, the benefit of expert assistance in promoting winter and summer vacation activities would be immediately available.

A trip to Albany resulted in an audience with Commissioner Catherwood. Assurances were given that Kingston would be considered. As the geographical limits of the district to be served were defined, the committee kept in constant touch with the Department of Commerce. When Kingston was finally selected the Chamber of Commerce Committee assisted in finding a suitable office location.

Now that the office has been officially announced, the Chamber of Commerce has already been called on to assist W. Dale Swartzmiller, the new manager, and stands ready to cooperate in every way possible.

Flashes of Life Sketched in Brief

Mischievous

A few moments later she heard him call to her and went into the bathroom, but the youngster couldn't be seen.

Olympia, Wash., Jan. 9 (AP)—Police were alerted to watch for a missing woman. Later they found she was in Seattle visiting friends.

A few days later, they found another "missing" woman in Seattle—visiting friends.

Then a third woman was reported missing. The desk sergeant picked up the phone. "It's elementary," he said, dialing the Seattle police.

Diet Troubles?

Chicago, Jan. 9 (AP)—A corselet, a vest-like leather garment worn by an Egyptian dandy back around 1500 B.C., has reposed in the Chicago Natural History Museum for 50 years.

Yesterday the guard noticed the corselet was missing and the case where it was kept was broken by the thief who stole it.

Let's talk turkey

Who should receive the benefits of improved methods when industry gets back into its peacetime production stride?

Judging by their strike demands, UAW-CIO leaders seem to think that such benefits should go entirely to union members.

They forget that it is important for consumers to benefit through reduced prices or greater values. This has the added advantage of increasing volume and thus expanding job opportunities.

They forget too that improved production methods come largely from the use of improved machinery and tools supplied by the owners of the business.

Over the years the automobile industry has grown and prospered and contributed substantially to the welfare of our country because it has adhered to the principle that customers, employes and investors must all benefit from improved methods.

The decision on how best to distribute the benefits calls for experience, judgment and—above all—a primary interest in the welfare of all concerned.

That's why such decisions must be left to management, which is equally concerned with the interests of employes, stockholders—and customers!

"Consumer Education" was the topic of the Kingston College Women's Club Tuesday evening as the group met for the January meeting in the First Dutch Reformed Church house. Miss Margaret Schuetz conducted the meeting.

She explained the trend of some advertisers in appealing to the emotions assuming that the buyer is too unintelligent to understand the commodity. Others have adopted the "descriptive label" so the buyer will know exactly what he is obtaining for his money. For illustration Clarence L. Dumm showed a film giving an account of the manufacture of a refrigerator. Entitled "Unsung Heroes" it is a film made by Westinghouse firm for their sales training program.

Mrs. George Dingee conducted a short business meeting. Miss Elizabeth Ferry, a graduate of Columbia University with an M.A. degree was accepted for active membership. NO FUR TAX REDUCTION EXPECTED BEFORE 1947 BY REP. DOUGHTON

Washington, Dec. 20—In an outline of the 1946 tax program of the House Ways and Means Committee, Chairman Robert L. Doughton told a press conference this week that no major change in the revenue law is contemplated in the coming year.

Wartime excise taxes, however, will be considered, he said, but any reduction of these is not likely to be made effective before Jan. 1, 1947.

Rep. Doughton said he personally favored removal of the war-time increases in the excise levies, as did the House in the original passage of the 1945 revenue bill. But he added that the tendency toward inflationary prices might stymie the chances of lifting the extra 10% on furs, jewelry, cosmetics, etc.

Crowds Gather at Wards for Nylons

Sale of 900 Pairs of Nylons Attracts Crowd

Nylons, 900 pairs of them offered by Montgomery Ward today, brought out an eager crowd of feminine shoppers to make their first purchases of the coveted hosiery since prewar days.

The first three women in a line of approximately 500 were Mrs. George Sheehan of 13 Burgevin street, Mrs. Crawford Shader of 23 Levan street and Mrs. Werner Senor of 82 Prospect street.

Mrs. Sheehan informed a reporter she had not had a pair of nylons since 1941, and had been unable to find any kind of a stocking in a month in the stores.

The price asked?

O.P.A. ceiling prices. The 51 gauge stockings sold for $1.35 a pair and the 45 gauge at $1.20 a pair.

The manager of the store, Thomas Gallagher, his assistant manager, William Hellawell, and two women clerks, Helen Benten and Helen Hoyt had the job of supplying the throng of anxious buyers.

Financial and Commercial

New York, Jan. 9 (AP)—Spirited, renewed buying in today's stock market lifted leaders fractions to around 2 points.

Some of the early, rapid-fire bidding petered out near the fourth hour and some of the favorites were down somewhat from their highs but a majority in the list remained on the upside.

Demand still was based on President Truman's statement yesterday that steel prices would be allowed to rise slightly.

This was accentuated by a report from Washington officials in a position to know but who could not be identified by name. They said the price increase would be about $4 a ton—$1.50 more than the limit previously set by the Office of Price Administration.

Investors interpreted the chief executive's comment as meaning that industry generally might be allowed an increase to balance higher labor costs.

The Western Union strike in New York moved into its second day but seemed to have little effect on security operations.

Clarify Ruling on G.I. School Benefits

Washington, Jan. 9 (AP)—Clipping red tape entanglements, the Veterans Administration today simplified payment of schooling benefits to disabled war veterans and announced increased allotments.

The higher allotments come from an amendment to the G.I. Bill of Rights, recently approved by Congress. H. V. Sterling, assistant veterans administrator, said a disabled veteran now may draw his pension plus his subsistence allotment while attending school.

Originally an unmarried disabled veteran whose pension was less than $92 a month, was raised to that minimum allowance if he enrolled in school. If the pension exceeded $92 he continued to draw the full pension, but nothing additional for school expenses. In the case of married disabled veterans, the minimum was $103.50.

Sterling says the amendment authorizes the payment of a pension to a disabled veteran, plus educational allotments under the G.I. Bill of Rights. These allotments are $65 a month for single veterans and $90 for married men, with additional allowances for dependents.

U.N.O. Committee Tours City Today

He said no final decision had been reached as to whether the temporary quarters would be made available but the U.N.O. delegates were asked to submit a list of requirements.

Bob Stone in News

Serge Fleigers, U. S. correspondent for 14 daily newspapers in India and a number of Latin-American publications, asserted here today that Hyde Park is the "ideal 'world capital'" and he believed the ancestral home of the late President Franklin D. Roosevelt would be chosen by the U.N.O. Committee as a permanent home.

Fleigers told Staff Sgt. Bob Stone of Kingston, a member of Stars and Stripes, that he based his beliefs on impressions gained by talking with Stoyan Gavrilovic of Yugoslavia who heads the delegation sent to the United States to inspect designated sites.

"The choice of Hyde Park would not be a tribute to a political leader," he told Stone, "but instead a glowing tribute to an American head of state."

Fliegers likened Hyde Park and Poughkeepsie section of Dutchess county to Geneva where the League of Nations convened and said Hyde Park "has everything they would want."

Fliegers will accompany the committee on its visit to Hyde Park Thursday.

The World Today

By DEWITT MACKENZIE

Paris, Jan. 9—No conclave in history has meant so much to world peace as does the meeting of the United Nations Organization assembly in London—a circumstance that is quite apparent to anyone standing here on the edge of a Europe which is struggling to avert utter chaos.

This moves one to the thought that it might have a salutary effect if the members of the assembly could come here to Versailles and spend a few moments in silent contemplation of the mess made by the League of Nations which was created here a quarter of a century ago. Your columnist watched the drafting of the League covenant here, and finally saw the signing of the peace treaty which brought the organization into being.

That was a great day for humanity—or so it seemed. After the signatures of the conquerors and the vanquished had been affixed to the treaty in the mirrored palace, the crowd of spectators which jammed the palace gardens sent up a mighty cry for the "Big Three"—Wilson, Clemenceau and Lloyd George. These famous statesmen came to one of the balconies and acknowledged the acclaim of the people. But this didn't satisfy the throng, which insisted that the Big Three come down.

Then followed an amazing scene. The three who had dominated the framing of the peace descended to the gardens, and arm-in-arm walked across the grounds while the wildly cheering mass reached out eager hands in an effort to touch the great personalities. Frantic secret-service men strove in vain to keep the milling throng away, fearing some untoward incident.

That demonstration symbolized the gratitude of the world for what then was believed to be the specific for peace. We thought we had outlawed war, but we hadn't come within gunshot of it.

There were various reasons for the failure of the League, but in essence it was due to the fact that a lot of member nations weren't prepared to go all-out to ensure peace. They were like the man who makes a confession of religion but at the same time has mental reservations regarding his pet sins which he isn't prepared to abandon. Selfish interests were developed in the League.

Now we are beginning a new effort to outlaw war, and the situation is far more dangerous than it was at the end of the last conflict. Both Europe and Asia are in that unhappy state of disorganization where anything could happen.

The whole world is looking to the U.N.O. Dispatches from London make it clear that the atomic bomb is leading the agenda. Well, all nations want the atomic bomb controlled, of course, but I venture the thought that probably they fear the distrust and suspicions which have been created by the existence of the bomb more than they do the terrible explosive power itself.

The distressed countries are looking to the new United Nations Organization to dispel the suspicions and iron out the difficulties which have been retarding the rehabilitation of Europe and Asia.

You can see with half an eye that the peace organization must swing into concerted action quickly and firmly if Europe is to be saved from further calamity. A hungry, cold and ragged continent will tell you that.

Uncertain Pennant Races Predicted by Ford Frick

By FORD C. FRICK

President, the National Baseball League

New York, Jan. 9 (AP)—Early in February what promises to be the most interesting spring training season in the history of organized baseball will be inaugurated at camps in Florida and California. Baseball, emerging from four years of wartime play, moves into the post-war era with fuller rosters, returning stars and considerable uncertainty as to which teams will dominate the two Major Leagues and meet in next October's World Series.

At the moment the Big League squads are just a list of names on paper. Managers do not know which of the veterans coming back from military service will be improved ball players, which will have slipped below Major League standard. Coming back are numerous youngsters who were ready to battle the established veterans of 1942 and 1943 when they were called to duty. Many of those in this latter group will be among the regulars of 1946.

In the '46 camps, too, will be the stars of 1945 Minor League play. Some of these were players who served in the army or navy and returned. Others played through wartime baseball, moving up to their first Big-League trials when the Major League camps will be crowded with talent. Their challenge to the name players of baseball will be another vitally interesting phase of the 1946 spring training season.

There is, therefore, more than the usual uncertainty of pennant prediction before this 1946 season. The rosters of the St. Louis Cardinals, the defending Chicago Cubs and the Brooklyn Dodgers in the National League appear most formidable at this stage but this picture can change with the release of one or two stars to any one of the other teams. Picking the probable winner, therefore, is an even more hazardous practice in '46 than in pre-war years.

A few certainties are available. Baseball will return to its four intersectional trips, always popular with the fans. This means shorter series and a quick-changing schedule. The All-Star game, too, will be returned to the mid-season program, scheduled this year for Boston's Fenway Park. Every indication is that baseball will be swept along in the post-war boom for sports and even the record attendances of 1945 may be surpassed.

Shooting Ace Retires After 56-Year Career

San Antonio, Tex., Jan. 9 (AP)—Adolph P. Toepperwein, unchallenged holder of the greatest shooting record ever made at aerial targets, retired today after 56 years of professional exhibition shooting. His greatest feat was performed here in 1906. In 12 days he missed only nine of 72,500 targets. Toepperwein toured the country with his equally famous wife, who died two years ago, and one of his most popular feats was to draw pictures with bullets, using approximately 300 bullets for a picture.

Weaver's 20 Points Pace Win Over Saugerties

Maroon Piles Up 57-27 Margin for Third Victory

Halstein's 25 Markers Aid Jayvees in Easy Win

Kingston High School's one-time "green" team is rapidly attaining veteran status. Before a packed house in the municipal auditorium last night, the Maroon overwhelmed Saugerties High, 57-27, for their third victory of the season.

Eddie Weaver, classy center, was the man of the night and superbly filled the large brogans generally worn by Tony Albany. The All-DUSO ace, Albany, played only one period and contributed four points.

Coming through in predicted style Weaver hit the cords for 20 points. Besides making a high percentage of his shots count, Weaver played the rebounds almost to perfection, grabbing the ball time and time again off the backboard.

Although most of the evening's action was centered on Weaver, Red Murray came through with his usually consistent game, sinking 10 points for second place in his team's scoring line. For Saugerties, Bob Terpening was high, tossing in 11 points.

First Half Century Total

For the first time this season, Kingston passed the half century mark in points. This was the highest score hit by a Maroon team since the days of Sagendorf and Zelie. Last year the greatest number of markers accumulated by the Maroon was an even even 50 against Saugerties on the Broadway boards.

Had he so desired, Coach Kias of Kingston could have named his score, but showing the kind of sportsmanship for which he is noted the Maroon mentor proved that he was not trying to pile the total on, substituted his entire second string squad in the fourth quarter. The Kingston subs, although lacking experience, managed to toss in 12 points in the final period to make a favorable impression.

Although the Kias system of play prevents them from scoring many points, credit must go to the Kingston guards for their fine style of play. The boys who get the ball up the court for the forwards and center to shoot, the backcourt men, Len Sickler and Bob Miller, are very rarely noticed in the scoring column, but their contribution toward victory does not lie in point making. Holding the other team's total down is their main job, and from the low scores which have been run up against Kingston this year, they have done their job well.

Jayvees Win Easily

In the preliminary game, the Maroon and White Jayvees continued their undefeated skein trouncing the Saugerties juniors 39-17. Lafayette Halstein played the role of a one-man team as he swished the nets for 25 points, his highest total of the season. His nearest competitor was Lonnie Shaffer of Saugerties, who played the one-man team sport for his squad as he tossed in 12 of Saugerties' 17 points. The Maroon Jayvees face an undefeated Newburgh junior squad in the preliminary to Friday's Kingston-Newburgh DUSO contest at the Hilly City.

In The Pocket

CHARLIE TIANO

The "ruptured duck" over the right blouse pocket—the symbol of G.I. freedom—was still panting when we barged into the Central Recreation alleys, after an epochal dash from Weehawken to Kingston via West Shore stratoliner. There were times when we would have settled for a saddle and snail, but this was strictly a one-way trip in khaki—and it was the last one.

It seems that the Army had suddenly become acutely aware of our complete unimportance to the cause and was dispatching us home with the usual final blessings and cash considerations. We'll not hide our head in shame in admitting we found a home in the Army. People don't add an inch to their collar, three to the waistline, plus 25 pounds and come away grumbling. But the Army reasoned that we had mulcted too many eggs from the Golden Goose and suddenly we discovered ourselves beset by the perplexities and complexities of making an honest living.

The first man we encountered had only recently been separated from Uncle Sam's exclusive fraternity, but had long since become a legend in Kingston bowling circles—Marty Kellenberger. (Do you remember way back when separated was just something that John did to his other wife?). It seems that the Army had gotten wise to Marty, too.

While overseas, informants had disturbed our Arctic slumbers, of which there were many and prolonged, with ominous reports about the changes we could expect to find upon our return home. Strangely enough, the only serious change we noticed was the unbelievable mustache Kellenberger was sporting. Here was a bizarre, hirsute decoration worthy of all the morbid curiosity it was commanding among the tenpin citizenry. The service does strange things to some men, but we doubt if it ever drove a soldier to a mustache like Marty's. Rumor has it that a songwriter took one gander at Kellenberger's weird soup strainer and was inspired to write that ludicrous ditty, "Your Father's Mustache."

In a serious vein, however, we'd like to extend orchids to Gil Sampson, Ad Jones, Pete Keresman, Harry Freese and the various members of the Kingston Bowling Association executive committees for their outstanding work in maintaining a high standard of bowling during three war years.

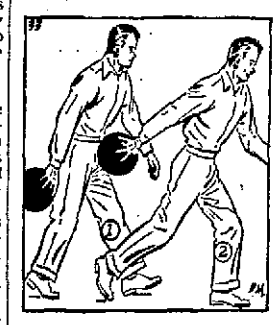
Other Things We Noted: Johnny Ferraro, who has made the 700 triple and 200 average commonplace, crashed the Hall of Fame with the city's first perfect 300 score in sanctioned competition. . . . Rose Schatzel fulfilled early promises and developed into the city's No. 1 female sharper. . . . Both seem destined for long reigns. . . . The K.B.A. steadily increased its membership and the city became 100 per cent A.B.C. sanctioned—no mean accomplishment during war time. . . . Joe Kelly, Dick McCarthy, Nate Markson and Ben Krum threw the weight of the press and radio behind bowling and extended solid support to the Bowlers' Victory Legion, March of Dimes, city tournaments and all organized competition.

The March of time produced new stars in every sports firmament and Kingston's bowling contributed several sparklers. . . . Joe Schrowang, Larry Welshaupt and Tony LaRocca are neophytes who skyrocketed to the upper brackets. . . . George "Stonge" Robinson and Clifton Quick achieved stardom after long, uphill climbs. . . . Diamonds in the rough, these youngsters are here to stay.

No . . . there has been no radical change in Kingston's bowling scenery. . . . If we had to be convinced, it happened a few days after we arrived. . . . The Major League had just gotten under way. . . . Harold Broskie arrived late. . . . George Flemings came in still later. . . . Dottie Flemings breezed in announcing another retirement. . . . That was the clincher!

Better Bowling

By Billy Sixty



CENTER OF ACTION: Jimmy Smith, former match champion, who was capable in teaching as well as in knocking down strikes, always stressed the second step as the "point of body control."

It is the center of all action—the point where the ball passes the body in its backward arc, the center of balance.

It is the place in the swing where the entire action gains momentum. The forward action speeds up as the weight transfer really "takes hold."

Smith used an expression that emphasized the importance of the second step: "Make the second step solid—that's the word, solid—so that the weight of the ball can't turn the shoulders out of line," he said.

In other words, permit the weight of the body to move onto the foot entirely—solidly. The head remains stationery, eyes front, left arm stretched out away from the body to effect perfect balance, as illustrated in No. 2 sketch.

Only by stepping solidly on the left foot, the shoulders maintaining a straight line, is it possible to follow a straight course to the foul line and to deliver the ball consistently along a desired path to the pins. It is the answer for control—the only answer.

Feller's Contract Set at Highest Ever for Pitcher

Cleveland, Jan. 9 (AP)—The Cleveland Indians today had fireballer Bob Feller under contract as the highest salaried pitcher in the history of baseball.

The 27-year-old right-hander signed a one-year contract which he termed "the best" of his career after a brief conference here yesterday with Indian Vice President Roger Peckinpaugh.

No official estimates were disclosed, but it was believed the former Iowa farm lad will receive approximately $50,000 for his services in 1946.

Bob last affixed his name to a one-year contract in 1941, his final full season before entering naval service. At that time he signed for a reported $40,000, including a $10,000 bonus based on attendance. The strikeout artist said no bonus clause was attached to this season's contract.

The $50,000 salary would make Feller baseball's highest paid hurler. Although there are no official figures on the subject, old time diamond followers recalled that the previous top for pitchers was between $20,000 and $25,000, reputedly paid to such flingers as Lazzy Vance, Dizz Dean, Charley Ruffing and Carl Hubbell. Bobo Newsom claimed to have drawn around $40,000 for his services with the Detroit Tigers during the 1941 season.

Torrential rains which have pounded the area for two days continued early today, but the weather bureau in Atlanta said the worst was over.

The number of homeless in Kentucky alone was estimated at 5,000.

Butter Hike Hits Hard at Experts

Economists Have Failed to Analyze Situation

Washington, Jan. 9 (AP)—Officially-advanced proposals for higher butter and meat prices collided today with government efforts to hold the line on food costs.

The butter hike-18 cents a pound by May 1—was reported to have been recommended by Secretary of Agriculture Anderson. Aides of the cabinet officer said he advanced the suggestion in a move to encourage production. Butter has been becoming increasingly hard to find in many parts of the country.

Anderson previously spoke out in favor of higgher ceiling prices on meats in an effort to avert next Wednesday's scheduled strike in the meat packing industry.

Behind these pressures on the government's hold-the-line policy is a demand for all kinds of food much stronger than many officials had anticipated. Agriculture Department economists attribute the demand to continuing shortages of such non-food goods as autos, radios and the like.

Testimony Concludes In Divorce Action

Testimony was concluded late Tuesday afternoon in the divorce action brought by James Quinn of Kingston, formerly of New York city, against his wife, Jane Quinn of New York. N. LeVan Haver appeared for plaintiff and George H. Fox for defendant. Plaintiff alleges that while a resident of New York city, Mrs. Quinn was too familiar with her brother-in-law who boarded at the Quinn home. Defendant denied this and contested the action.

Sworn before Justice Schenck and a jury composed of seven women and five men, were the building superintendent of the house in which the Quinn family resided, and two detectives. John Quinn, brother of plaintiff, testified for defendant and the defendant took the stand in her own behalf. Defendant charged that her brother-in-law lived at the home with the knowledge and at the request of plaintiff.

The summations and charge will be delivered today and the case submitted to the jury.
